

We Too Want to Say “Thank You”

To Dena, Lilac, and all those who participated in organizing the moving event in our honor, to all those who honored us with their presence, to the speakers, to those who penned their thoughts and those who didn't but made our work pleasant over the years: heartfelt thanks!

The words uttered by our forefather Jacob in his prayer: “I am unworthy of all the kindness that You have so steadfastly shown Your servant...” echo our feelings. We have processed tens of thousands of books during our tenure but few carried such a strong message of love as the book with which you presented us as a parting present: words from the heart penetrate the heart ... we were truly moved! Over the years we have received our thanks in the privilege of serving such a unique, varied clientele of readers. We learned much from you and developed many, personal connections that extended far beyond the workplace. We, no less than you, have been enriched. Best wishes to the “community of readers.” We wish each and every one of you many years of productive work in good health and with much joy!

In love, appreciation, and thanks,
